Ten running for four council seats

Mayor Tung in by acclamation

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

It's shaping up to be quite a race in Elk Point's Oct. 21 municipal election, with 10 candidates in the race to join Mayor Parrish Tung, who was returned by acclamation, around the town's council table.

Incumbents Eugene Buck, Bernice Capjack, Ron Fraess and Dwayne Yaremkevich have been joined by former councillors Dick Millar and Lawrence Pidluzny and newcomers Bernadette Godlein, Coral Krachmer, Debra McQuinn and Lorne Young in their bid for four council seats.

Young also submitted his nomination papers for the Ward A seat on the St. Paul Education Regional Division No. 1 board, and won that post by acclamation. Darrell Youngmans, who did not seek re-election, formerly held that seat.

In the County of St. Paul, it is a three-way race for Reeve, with former MLA and onetime county reeve Ray Danyluk and Ben Dyck running against incumbent Steve Upham.

County voters in Divisions 1, 2, 3 and 6 will have only the reeve ballot on which to make their choice, as incumbent Couns. Glen Ockerman, Dwight Dach and Cliff Martin and newcomer Laurent Amyotte are all in by acclamation, Amyotte taking the seat formerly held by Alphonse Corbiere, who did not seek re-election. In Division 4, incumbent Maxine Fodness will be joined on the ballot by David Neary, while in Division 5, incumbent Frank Sloan will run against Donna Hanson.

Storm water drainage not addressed: Buck

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

The issue of storm water drainage for both the new residential subdivision and the industrial land was on the table at last week's meeting of Elk Point town council. Coun. Eugene Buck questioned why storm water management plans for both areas will not be completed until mid-winter, according to a progress report from Select Engineering Consultants Ltd.

"We've been 15 years without a storm water management plan," Buck said of his own neighbourhood, noting that the runoff from spring snow melt or a heavy rainfall makes "a nice little waterfall" and flows through a neighbour's yard.

"That ratepayer can't wait. He needs a management plan now. The alley floods, and there's a river on the east side of Centennial Drive," Buck noted, adding that he did not feel a swale or berm would address the issue.

"Something has to be enacted. It's no secret that Elk Point is built on a side hill, and this shows a distressing lack of planning that is not acceptable to me, and I'm sure is not acceptable to you," he told council.

Mayor Parrish Tung said the plan referred to in the report will address the issue of where to channel the increase in storm water resulting from further development, and noted that a collection pond at the west end of the development has always been part of the plan.

"There's no way we can put a big ditch or a culvert in there. Right now, we're looking at what we can do when there is more development. Your concerns have been duly noted."

Buck also questioned the lack of planning in place for Highway 41 access to the expended industrial area.

The town was told the existing approach could be used when there were only the five lots being developed, Mayor Tung noted. It will be up to the province to decide if another approach with a turning lane will be needed now that more lots are being developed.

"We are planning ahead, not behind," the mayor said. "We are asking (the engineer) to start designing the highway turnoff this fall."

The report also noted that a new catch basin would be installed along the highway near the car wash site in the near future.

Town manager Myron Goyan said he will ask for the storm drainage issue to be addressed as soon as possible, and agreed with the mayor that, "a retention pond has always been in the plans. There has always been a problem along that back lane, and that water has to go to a retention pond or it would flood (surrounding areas)." A swale, he added, should direct the water to the drainage ditch.

51 Street reconstruction.

A recommendation from the public works committee to approve the reconstruction of 51 Street from the drainage ditch south of 58 Ave. to 60 Ave. at the cost of just under $275,000 was approved by council.

Inspections contract

Council discussed the renewal of the town's inspection contract with Accucode Inspections Ltd., Cold Lake, and agreed to sign the contract. Goyan noted that prior to the time the town began working with that firm, "contractors had a choice of inspectors, and it caused all kinds of confusion. Accucode is prompt with their reports, and that makes it easy" for him to give the final approval on permits.

Healthcare Centre update

Mayor Tung reported that he had talked to Alberta Health Services and Wendy Harrison, vice president of Rural Health for the Northeastern Zone, and learned that a full nursing staff is now in place, and advertising is underway for a head nurse, whose duties would be "mostly administrative." Some of the long-term care nurses are being cross-trained for work in acute care, and Harrison had indicated she would like to have some casual nurses to fill as required, he said. "Wendy knows there is the demand for services. The health centre is very busy and everything is positive." He noted that two recently arrived nurses are making use of the housing subsidy that had been offered as a hiring incentive.

Financially stable

The town is "financially doing OK," according to Goyan, with $87,538.20 in current taxes and $76,967.16 in tax arrears still to come in. Properties on which $16,513.95 in uncollectible taxes are owed are to be advertised for tax sale, but Goyan noted that usually in those cases, the taxes are cleared up before a sale takes place. An interest has been shown in land the town still has for sale, he told council.

Hot spot

Minutes from Northeast Alberta Hub meetings were on the agenda, and Ron Fraess noted, "More and more, Elk Point is being referred to as the hot spot in the area."

Airport grant

The $1,021,500 paving grant for Elk Point Municipal Airport has been received with the result being "a beautiful air strip," according to Municipal Airport Authority chair Eugene Buck.

Dwayne Vogel has joined the Municipal Airport Authority, which was scheduled to meet on Wednesday.

There is one more council meeting prior to the election, but some members of council had indicated they will not be present as the meeting falls the day after the Thanksgiving Day long weekend. Mayor Tung, who was returned to his chair by acclamation, wished all of the councillors the best of luck on election night.

Further Ed connects with the community

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point Further Education courses are now underway, and Elk Point coordinator Verona Lea Flanders is enthusiastic about two upcoming computer courses held in conjunction with the Elk Point Public Library. Instruction in basic e-mail and basic word processing will be provided by Daphne Schnurer, and Further Education has assisted the library with the purchase of a new computer "for courses like these" to replace an outdated one, Flanders told the Further Ed Council at last week's meeting.

The library is also the venue for Further Ed's twice-weekly stretch and tone sessions, which currently fill the program room with 25 participants, and two upcoming courses for current and future retirees, she said.

Flanders reported that three of the quilting courses in the fall program guide have been canceled, as instructor Pat Allen is not available. Flanders had hoped to offer a course in line dancing but was unable to find the 10 participants necessary to get an instructor.

Heinsburg coordinator Marie Zayac said she is hopeful for upcoming fitness courses, because she now has a certified instructor available. A quilting group is also meeting at the Community School on a regular basis.

Flanders also told the group about a new endeavour, a 'giving group' that will have its first meeting Oct. 9 at 10 a.m. at Further Ed, which she hopes "will bring together those who have things to give, those who have time and talents to give, and those who are able to distribute things that are needed by others."

Everyone is welcome to come and give their input, she noted.

- Family reunions can be a lot of fun. Reconnecting with family members can also be a good time to learn more about your family's health history. It will help you answer your doctor's questions like "Is there any diabetes, heart disease or cancer in your family?" Knowing about your family's health history can help you take preventive measures to keep yourself in good health.
- Keeping your eyes healthy is very important. Part of a regular eye exam is to have a dilated eye exam which allows the eye doctor to have a good look at the retina at the back of the eye. Some diseases like high blood pressure, diabetes and macular degeneration are often symptomless in the early stages but could be discovered with a dilated eye examination. Have you had your eyes checked lately?
- If you drink fat-reduced milk (skim, 1%, 2%), you aren't missing out on any important nutrients. You will get no less calcium or vitamins in the low-fat versions.
- If now is the time you've decided to stop smoking, you might be interested to know you can start using nicotine replacement therapy like patches or lozenges while you are still smoking. If you are a heavy smoker, start with the strongest patch and you will find you will automatically adjust your nicotine intake from one source when you add another. Our pharmacists can help you with this. We'd be happy to help you stop smoking. Drop in and see us soon.

National Seniors' Day

Today, the Government of Canada is proud to pay tribute to the seniors who have helped build our country and continue to make valuable contributions to Canadian communities, workplaces and society. October 1 National Seniors Day, is an occasion for all Canadians to appreciate and celebrate seniors.

While Alberta, and BC celebrate Seniors' Week in June, our Saskatchewan neighbours celebrate their seniors this week, and all Canadians are being urged to join in today's nation-wide celebration.

On October 1, join us in celebrating the continuous contributions of Canada's seniors!

WAY BACK WHEN...

Resignation, celebration and consideration

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND THE ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF OCT. 1 IN...

1988

Mayor Byron Mann resigned his position "with considerable regret... I had a lot I wanted to do yet" due to a company transfer back to Calgary. Thirty cars and trucks brought over 225 viewers to the A. G. Ross Arena for the Agricultural Society's Car Show '88.

1993

Alberta Community Development's seven-foot-tall bookworm, Wormsworth, made a big impression when he toured Elk Point Elementary School to invite the youngsters to Information Night. Suzanne Rae was presented with the Governor General's medal and 10 other awards, including four scholarships, at F. G. Miller High School Awards Night.

1998

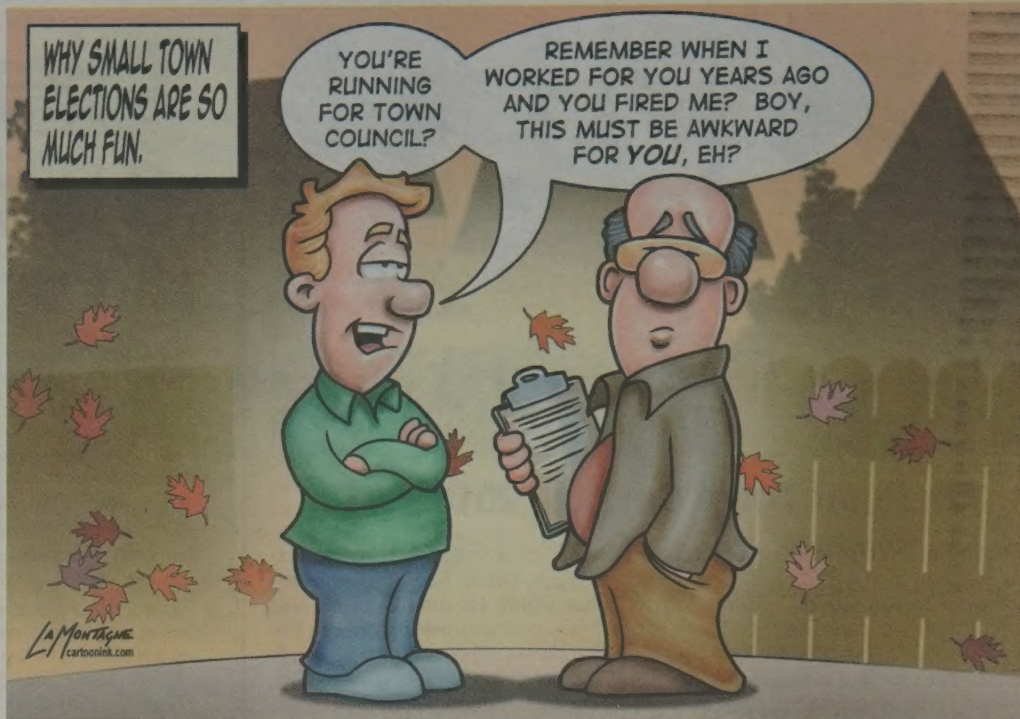

It was a celebration of faith as a joy-filled ceremony rich in symbolism marked the solemn blessing of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, with the handsome new structure filled with parishioners and visitors for this very special occasion. The Greater St. Paul Local of the Alberta Teachers' Association welcomed newcomers and bid farewell to retirees at their annual banquet, the newcomers including Christie Sorochan of Elk Point Elementary and the retirees including Howard Meger, who taught at EPE for 23 years.

2003

A memorial statue created by St. Paul sculptor Herman Poulin and honouring Métis veterans was unveiled in Fishing Lake, a recognition many felt was long overdue. Heinsburg Community School saluted the efforts of their junior and senior high school students with Bailey Youngmans, Grade 8, Royle Bristow, Grade 8, Brandy Stanley, Grade 9, all winning multiple awards.

2008

Young cancer survivors Kaylee Poitras, Cassandra Glambeck and Clarissa Gussowski were the flag bearers for Elk Point Elementary School's Terry Fox Run, with students from ECS to Grade 6 taking part. The Town of Elk Point was urged to reconsider the proposed site of their new fire hall, with residents who had just built a new home near that site suggesting a more centralized location.

OUR VIEWS

The wayward wind

On the front page of the Tuesday, September 17, 2013 edition of the Elk Point Review, the highlighted title appeared: "Turbine operation suspended". The information that was given stated: "The wind turbine at the Elk Point Visitor Information EcoCentre has been shut down, following the receipt of a suspension order on Aug. 31 from the Alberta Utilities Commission, and its operation must remain suspended until a comprehensive sound level survey determines that it meets permissible sound levels, or until a complaint registered against the turbine is withdrawn."

from the FCSS desk

I don't know about you, but I have some concerns. One concern I have is around the noise factor that appears to be offensive to the person registering the complaint. Having an office in the building, I have never been concerned about the noise the turbine makes. In fact, I am not aware of any offensive noise. I am well aware when wind speed or wind velocity is at a high speed; sound of the wind will be at a higher level. Thus my question now is: Did this person who has registered the complaint chart the times and days when the turbine noise was offensive? My point is that on a regular day, I didn't hear the wind sound of the turbine. Logically, when wind velocity is at a high level, we can hear many different sounds because wind is going to be affecting many elements in the environment. In other words, can the sound of the turbine be separated from other sounds a strong wind will make? This is just a question.

To measure wind sound is scientifically complicated. I went on Google to see what I could learn and after I learned that engineers measuring the sound of wind will be noting the "daily noise dose", "the actual exposure time at a given noise level", and will be analyzing the "permissible exposure time at that level", I decided to level the measurement to the "experts".

Also in my research, I learned that Dr. Donald B.

DeYoung, a creationist physicist specializing in solid state and nuclear science, as well as astronomy stated: "Sound always originates as a vibrating object whether a violin string, vocal chords or a hanging leaf. The sound is carried to you by oscillating air molecules, which in turn set your eardrum vibrating. There are several ways in which wind makes itself heard. Trees provide a natural outdoor instrument as branches and leaves shake, they cause vibrations in the surrounding air, the faster the object moves, the higher will be the pitch that is heard."

In the work world, there are standards regarding given noise level and duration. However, in nature that is not the case. Hurricanes, tornadoes and other natural disasters do not have any rules above noise level or duration. When you study the effects of these disasters regarding their psychological effect on people, yes, they can be traumatic.

I, for one, have noticed an increase in the amount of wind over the last few years. Being raised in Southern Alberta, I grew up experiencing a lot of wind often and when I first moved up here, I appreciated the fact there was less wind. However, in the last little while I have noticed some Southern Alberta comparisons regarding wind.

What is the bottom line with the turbine? The turbine was just trying to harness the wind and use it as a resource.

Do you all remember this song as recorded by Eddy Arnold and sung by Patsy Cline? I will quote the first two lines.

"Oh, the wayward wind is a restless wind; A restless wind that yearns to wander..."

Basically, wind can be negative and it can be positive as it moves and "wanders". But it exists - its nature (good or bad) and a resource. It's sound will occur ... it is all a part of dealing with it.

The second annual 2nd Chance Trail Ride may have traveled less than 20 km down the Iron Horse Trail from Lindbergh to Heinsburg on May 11 of this year, but it will have a much more far-reaching affect for organ transplant patients receiving treatment at the University of Alberta Hospital in Edmonton. The $55,000 in pledges, donations, silent and live auction sales and other contributions by ride participants, community members and corporate donors from far and wide that resulted from the ride will allow the Edmonton-based GoodHearts Transplant Foundation to provide a third suite at the Galen Lofts apartments across the street from the hospital to be made available to transplant recipients at a very reasonable rate. October is Canada Healthy Workplace Month

By ALBERTA HEALTH SERVICES
Review Contributor

If you make your workplace a more healthy place to work, your employees will feel valued, respected and safe. That's one of the messages behind Canada's Healthy Workplace Month, which takes place each October. The goal of the month is to increase the awareness of a comprehensive approach to workplace health. We want to make you aware of resources about workplace health and wellness as well as increase the number of healthy workplaces in Canada. Initially, creation of healthy workplaces involved focusing on worksite safety and injury prevention for workers. Workplace health and wellness has now evolved into three main focuses at the workplace: Health and Lifestyle Practices; Workplace Culture and Supportive Environments; and Physical Environment and Occupational Health and Safety. Workplace health addresses a wide range of health issues including physical health, social health, mental and emotional health, environment, health practices through programs, and policies and practices at the workplace. Benefits employers see when their staff are healthy are reduced amount of sick-days, reduced occurrence of workplace injuries, reduced health care insurance costs, and improved morale and productivity. One way of encouraging a healthy workplace is by incorporating active breaks. Instead of sitting down in the lunchroom and having a coffee or doughnut, take 10 or 15 minutes for a walk, icebreaker game or flexibility exercises. Instead of having meetings with coffee, doughnuts, and muffins, employers are now invoking healthy eating policies at their business. Staff meetings and other business functions have fruits and vegetables, salads, and other foods and beverages recommended in the Alberta Nutrition Guidelines. An employee assistance program (EAP) is a counselling service offered to employees with personal problems that affect their performance at work such as substance abuse, relationship issues, harassment or job stress to list a few. EAPs are purchased by an employer and the services are provided by an external organization or possibly an internal department. As cost is sometimes a barrier to physical activity, a new trend in health and wellness benefits is seeing employers pay for gym memberships or other costs associated with active living. This will give the employee the incentive to begin a physical activity program and see the employer in a brighter light. For more information on workplace health and wellness, call 1-866-408-LINK (5465) or visit: MyHealth.Alberta.ca <http://healthyalberta.com/healthy-workplaces.htm> www.healthyworkplacemonth.ca

FGM Parent Council tours new gym

F. G. Miller High School's Parent Council followed up their first meeting of the year on Wednesday evening with a tour of the new gym, conducted by very proud principal Darcy Younghans. Behind the windows at the left of the photo are the dressing rooms and the phys. ed. teacher's office, with a future weight room and the music room on the mezzanine above. Above left, he gives a brief overview of the project to parents (left to right) Robbie Allen, Melanie Poulin and Lana MacDonald. Above, he points out the new fountain, which is equipped with a water bottle filler and ionizes and purifies the water, as well as indicating how many plastic water bottles have been saved by its use. A second unit is located in the main floor common area. At left are the new score clock, already in use as the volleyball season gets underway, and the retractable bleachers which fold compactly against the north wall of the gym when not in use.

Cyclist hit by vehicle

By Sgt. DAVID CASEY
Elk Point RCMP

On Friday, Sept. 21 at approximately 9:00 p.m., Elk Point RCMP were called to an accident on the Frog Lake First Nations. A 17-year-old cyclist was struck by a vehicle near the administration office and the vehicle fled the area. The 17-year-old male was taken by ambulance to Elk Point and airlifted by STARS to the University of Alberta Hospital with non-life-threatening injuries. Members located a suspect vehicle on an unrelated call. The investigation continues and charges are pending.

Multiple break and enter

In the early morning hours of Wednesday, Sept. 25, Elk Point RCMP were called to a report of a break and enter at a residence in Laurier Lake. While on scene it was learned that another residence in the area was also broken into. An RCMP member attended that residence and did a walk of the neighborhood and located a third residence that was also broken into. The RCMP Forensic Identification Section in St. Paul was called in to assist. The RCMP received further calls later that evening to advise four other residences had also been broken into. The investigation continues.

OHV reminder

The Elk Point RCMP wants to remind parents about the use of off-highway vehicles by their children. Off-highway vehicles are just that, for off the highway, this includes streets within town.

Twin runs for Terry Fox

Elk Point Elementary School held a pair of Terry Fox Runs on Friday, the first, shown above and right, involving Grade 4, 5 and 6 students, who ran from their starting point in front of the Alberta Centennial Stage north of the A. G. Ross Arena and multiple laps around the lane behind the homes on Circle Drive. At right, Dylan Ference and Liam Ludlage were the first to make it around the loop in the first lap of the morning event. Those students were joined by the other grades later in the day for an all-out effort that saw students, staff and a number of parents join in a long walk around town, following cancer survivors and flag bearers, principal Rob MacDonald, teacher Debbie Wood and students Jake Fontaine and Abby Rybchinsky, who the school's athletic director Christie Roche called "Our forever heroes" in her pre-walk presentation.

Students ran in the sunshine amid falling autumn leaves, sported Terry Fox tattoos, and at the end of the day's events, gathered in front of the Alberta Centennial Stage for one enormous group photo.

SAM MACDONALD
St. Paul Journal
The position of County of St. Paul Reeve is looking to be a contested one as three candidates have thrown their names into the running, each with their own priorities and directions in which they want to take the county.

Incumbent Steve Upham has decided to seek election for a second term, in the interests of keeping his position, he says, "The position (of reeve) is a big commitment, and I've enjoyed the work and challenges over last three years."

Upham believes the two most important challenges that face the county are completing all necessary road projects, and continuing to secure funding for the Water for Life project.

"Over the last few years, we've had issues with the weather and retaining workers, because of competition with the oil patch," says Upham. "We have projects going on that I want to see completed."

Upham explains that there are also ongoing discussions with the provincial government on the funding for Water for Life.

"The government has recently reduced funding for the programs in the last budget, and deferred it two to three years down the road. There's no money beyond the original commitment, and if the programs go over budget there may not be funding for that. I plan to continue to pursue funding committed by the government for water projects. I think doing so is very important."

Upham says activity in the oil sector and its continual growth and increasing requirements for workers have proven challenging to the county and its need for personnel to do work.

When asked what he thought of reorganizing or restructuring municipalities, Upham says that such a course of action "has possibilities, but it wouldn't be good for two independent communities at this point."

Upham continues saying, "Lac la Biche was almost a test-case, when it occurred there. And it definitely had its growing pains in that case. It had some trouble along the line developing, after amalgamation."

Reeve

Of his campaign, Upham says, "I've been campaigning for a couple of days, and things look pretty good. I'm looking forward to meeting voters, and finding out their opinions and viewpoints."

Former PC MLA for the region and reeve for the County of St. Paul from October of 1995 to October of 1998, Ray Danyluk believes that what the County of St. Paul needs is "a strong advocate to the provincial government."

Danyluk considers the under-review legislation affecting revenues to municipalities to be important, and wants to make sure the County of St. Paul continues to get the funding it requires.

"Revenue streams for rural municipalities are vulnerable and need to be protected," he says.

Another issue with the county Danyluk feels needs attention is the increasing amount of debt.

"Certainly some benefits have been appreciated by projects undertaken, but the debt needs addressing," Danyluk adds, "The county needs to look at ways to maximize grant funding in order to minimize increases in taxes."

When asked why he is running for reeve Danyluk says, "Advancing rural communities has been something I have worked hard for in many areas. I have leadership experience and established relationships that can move our county forward. I have great pride in this community and believe I have the skills desired in

"Exploration in sharing services and specialized equipment is not a bad idea. The door should always be open to examining ways to improve efficiency and minimize expenses."

Ben Dyck is the third candidate up for position of reeve. He believes the biggest issues facing the County of St. Paul are its

"The position (of reeve) is a big commitment, and I've enjoyed the work and challenges over last three years."

- Steve Upham

A topic being discussed in many rural municipalities lately is regionalization. Danyluk believes that restructuring or reorganizing of municipalities, in some cases, can be a useful and a productive move. An example he uses of such an approach being useful is in terms of services.

"Cooperation and shared services in some departments makes sense," he says. "The regional fire chief is a good example. It avoids the duplication of services, and equipment is beneficial to the community."

Danyluk adds, debt and the conditions of its roads.

"There's no good road maintenance going on out here," says Dyck, adding, "We're not doing good basic road maintenance. They need to get more gravel out there, and spend more time on the roads. It's really obvious on the far north end of county, with very little gravelling, and not enough snow removal."

Dyck explains that although the County of Two Hills has a smaller budget than St. Paul, it has "graders on the road every week, all the time. The roads don't get pounded out there as much, and hold up way better."

Dyck would also like to see pressure put on the province for improvements to Hwy 881.

"I don't understand why the 881 and is given such little attention. We have major traffic on the 881, with narrow shoulders, and they don't do anything about it - it's like they don't understand what people are using to drive."

Dyck has a shop on Hwy 881 (south) "and there's a major amount of traffic on the highway every day. You've got traffic similar to primary highways on it. It's something you need to look at. The world changed from 20 years ago and loads got bigger."

Dyck also wants to see the return of the roadside grant paid to landowners for cleaning up along the road, where it goes through their property, "guaranteeing landowners a certain amount of money per half-mile cleaned up."

One of Dyck's main objectives is, "to get counties back to basics. The county was established to set up road networks out in the county and we've gotten side-tracked into a lot of stuff."

Dyck says he aspires to be a "real down-to-earth no-bull kind of guy ... I have a lot of respect for someone who tells me straight how things are, whether I like it or not."

On the subject of regionalization, Dyck says, "I would like to see how it worked before I draw an opinion. Off the cuff, to me, it would seem like the town would end up sucking up some of the county's resources. I haven't heard much complaining in Lac la Biche, and am curious to see how it would work."

2013 Deer Hunters - Your role in Chronic Wasting Disease Surveillance

As a deer hunter in Alberta, you play an important role in the province's chronic wasting disease (CWD) surveillance program.

The government requires CWD testing on all deer harvested within Wildlife Management Units (WMUs): 102, 116, 118, 119, 124, 144, 148, 150, 151, 152, 160, 162, 163, 164, 200, 202, 203, 204, 230, 232, 234, 236, 238, 254, 256, 258, 500, 728, and 730. It is mandatory to submit deer heads harvested in these areas.

In 2013, four new voluntary units were added: 138, 142, 156, and 166.

Antlers and skull cap can be removed before the head is submitted.

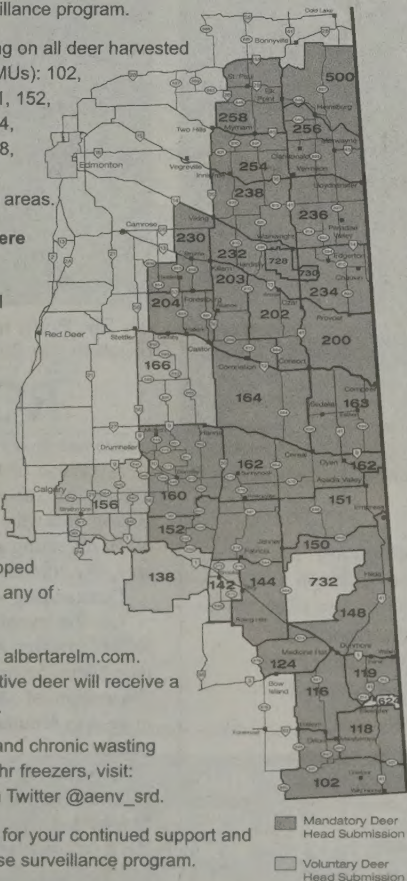

Each head must have a green CWD label attached. After you shoot your deer, visit a Fish and Wildlife office of Environment and Sustainable Resource Development or, during rifle seasons, one of our 24-hr freezers in eastern Alberta to pick up and fill out BOTH SIDES of a green CWD label. Heads should be kept frozen and dropped off at any Fish and Wildlife office or at any of the freezers.

CWD-negative results are provided at albertarelm.com. Any hunter who harvests a CWD-positive deer will receive a phone call from Fish and Wildlife staff.

For information on hunting in Alberta and chronic wasting disease, including locations of the 24-hr freezers, visit: www.mywildalberta.com. Follow us on Twitter @aenv_srd.

Thanks to all hunters and landowners for your continued support and co-operation with this important disease surveillance program.

Over the past 75 years, ATB Financial has grown from a single branch in Rocky Mountain House to 171 branches and 130 agencies across Alberta. In recognition of the support that Albertans have given the financial institution, ATB is celebrating its 75th birthday by investing $236,000 in the communities it serves. Elk Point branch manager Shawn Jensen presented a $1,000 cheque to Melissa Rogal for the Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club on Friday, while ATB staff members and fellow Ukrainian Dance Club parents Brianne Greening and Faye Poitras looked on.

Carla Ganske and Tanya Blacklock greeted customers and handed out live tree seedlings in commemoration of ATB's 75th anniversary. Cake and coffee was also part of the celebration.

Hockey starts today at A. G. Ross!

Hello everyone, my name is Doug "the Sports hound" Bassett and I have to apologize to my readers for being missing in action for the last four to six weeks or so! It's been a little slack on the minor sports department, plus I must admit I've been a little lazy. In my defense, we did take a few weeks' holidays back to my roots in sunny southern Ontario, but I'm happy to report that I'm back and you will be hearing from me every week from now until the middle of March from Elk Point Minor

Review Sports

Hockey Central; the good old A.G Ross Arena.

This is without a doubt the best time of the year for all you sports fans out there. I love the World Series and it starts today. It's really hard to explain how every pitch could mean so much until you have been in the dugout in a big game. Minor ball counts too, you know!!

The regular NHL season is also getting underway. It's exciting - every year we have new hope. Go Leafs Go! I don't want to mention anything about the pre-season, because my wife Donna doesn't think my boys in blue set a very good example for the young hockey players out there when they had their big donnybrook and stick swinging incident, so let's leave that one alone. But I'm sure my buddy Don Cheery will have lots to say about it. I predict the Oilers have finally got some light at the end of the tunnel and will be in the playoffs this year.

The NFL is a game I don't understand, four downs to go ten yards, but millions of people watch it every week and of course the CFL is well underway and teams are playing every week now for a playoffs spot.

Our own minor hockey officially starts tonight, Oct. 1 with the first practices of the year, but one of our teams got the jump on the season this past weekend, playing an exhibition game up in Bonnyville on this past Sunday. The Atom Avalanche under new head coach Tyson Stafford had their first win of the season. Tyson played all his minor hockey right in Elk Point and was one of the best minor hockey players I ever watched. I remember when I first started getting involved watching him play here in midget provincials and thinking, "Wow! This guy is awesome". Great skater stick handler and has a wicked snap shot. His brother Darcy Stafford who is also an above average player has volunteered to be his assistant and his wife Twila volunteered to be team manager so it's going to be a real family affair.

The Avalanche may have been a little rusty but they sure didn't show it after winning 6 to 5. A hat trick for the speedy Jaden "Jet Stream" Van Maarion. This guy can really crank it up when he gets some open ice and sticks it into overdrive. Another guy with awesome wheels, "Lightning Liam Ludlage" lighting the candle with two and the talented slippery skater Charlie "the little Angel" Rogal with a goal and two helpers. Sophomore player Kobe Warawa on the official score sheet with an assist. The rugged defenseman Jace the "Stafford Streak" with an assist as well as some great back-checking. Between the pipes, Ronan "Radar" Poulin was spectacular on some key saves. In fact, the whole team played great, especially when you consider most of them haven't been on skates at all this fall.

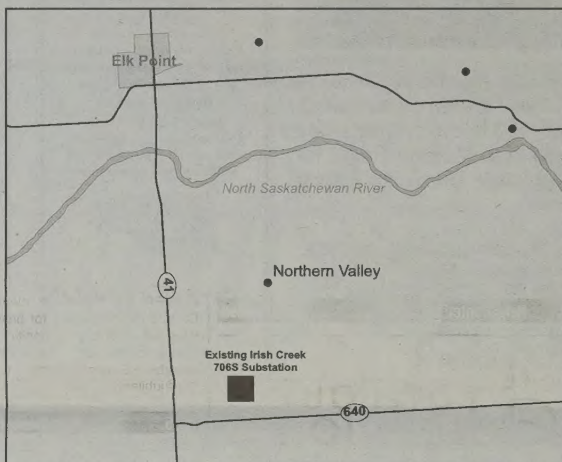

And a big happy 14th birthday going out today to the only member of the family we haven't mentioned, Austin "Ozzie" Stafford who will be playing bantam here in Elk Point this year. In case you haven't heard, we have a bantam team again!!!!!!

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week: "They score!!! Henderson has scored for Canada." Have a sports scoop? Now you can email them to sportshound007@hotmail.com

Notification of AESO Regulatory Filing Addressing the Need to Upgrade the Irish Creek 706S Substation in the Elk Point Area

The Alberta Electric System Operator (AESO) advises you that it intends to file a Needs Identification Document (NID) for the upgrade of the Irish Creek 706S Substation with the Alberta Utilities Commission (AUC) on or after October 16, 2013.

ATCO Electric Ltd. (ATCO) has requested an increase in transmission capacity to supply growing load in the Elk Point area. ATCO's request can be addressed by upgrading the Irish Creek 706S substation, including the installation of a 144 kV transformer and associated switches and equipment.

The black square on the map indicates the approximate location where a substation upgrade is needed. In a separate application called a Facility Application, ATCO, the transmission facilities owner (TFO) in the Elk Point area, will describe the specific upgrades to be performed and request AUC approval to construct and operate the specific transmission facilities.

The AESO and ATCO presented this need to stakeholders, including residents, occupants and landowners, from May to October 2013. The AESO has considered feedback gathered from stakeholders, and technical and cost considerations, and will apply to the AUC for approval of the need for this transmission development. Once filed, the NID will be posted on the AESO website at <http://www.aeso.ca/transmission/28659.html>

Please visit our website, www.aeso.ca for more information, or contact the AESO at 1-888-866-2959 or stakeholder.relations@aeso.ca
